

Ellie is now a Picture of Health

All pet lover and dog owner Maria Halling wanted was for her german shepherd Ellie to be in the best of health with a glossy skin and shiny coat.

Maria bought Ellie as a 10-month-old puppy and shortly after she arrived she developed a rash on her tummy and the tops of her feet, a condition that proved a continual nightmare for both of them.

Regular trips to the vet did not help ease the condition nor did changing her diet.

The problem continued for the next four years. Maria tried a supplement for Ellie's skin and coat. When using the supplement her condition did improve but gradually the rash would return.

Maria explains:: “We are very much in to natural health care methods and when we heard about Verm-X Natural Parasite Control we decided to give it a go.

“Having tried a number of remedies that had not helped we were delighted to see a big improvement when we started to give Ellie Verm-X Herbal Dog Crunchies.

“Within weeks of taking Verm-X, the rash had cleared up and Ellie's coat is shiny and glossy. It felt truly fantastic to be able to help Ellie and see her looking so well. We love her!”

Ellie is now living a healthy, happy life.
